STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council held its initial meeting in September and the following officers elected: President, David Gray; Vice-President, Richard Gyure; Secretary, Priscilla Palmer; and Treasurer, June Johnson.

The first project was Freshmen Reception, at which the Freshmen were welcomed to Bridgton High School. This and the initiation went off with the usual success.

Plans for recreation during the noon hour were carried out by James Evans and Maxine Durgin. Dorothy Proctor was chosen to take care of candy sales, and Zane Thompson was selected to supervise Coca-Cola sales.

A committee, headed by Merton Warren, was selected to make a survey of the best place to purchase jackets. Approximately forty students purchased jackets through this committee.

Lunches were provided for the visiting basketball teams in the Domestic Science rooms under the direction of Duane Durgin, Muriel Small, and Dorothy Proctor.

Program of supervision of the new High School building by the Student Council was provided. Various students were selected and made responsible for the various rooms, lavatories, and the corridor.

The Student Council planned to go to the State Convention of Student Councils at Waterville, but decided at the last moment not to go because the meeting was held during Christmas vacation.

New ideas and projects are planned for next year to make school enjoyable for both students and teachers.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

The class of '51 held its first meeting on Thursday, Sept. 8, electing the following officers: President, Dean Powers; Vice-President, James Evans; Secretary, Dorothy Proctor; Treasurer, Beverly Libby; Student Council, Maurice Robbins, Rodney Hill, and Rex Martin.

In order to increase our treasury for financing the many activities of our senior year, we have sponsored many projects. We held a turkey raffle at Thanksgiving, sold refreshments at the basketball games, sold football pins and pencils printed with the basketball schedule. The boys were in charge of a very successful Hallowe'en Dance, and the girls, a St. Patrick's Day Dance. Plans for the Junior Prom, to be held April 28, are in progress.

The following people were chosen for the prize speaking contest: D. Proctor, E. Savage, B. Libby, M. Durgin, M. Johnson, M. Robbins, R. Hill, R. Martin, E. Varney, J. Evans, and R. Smart.

We have had several class members taking part in athletics and other extra curricular activities. Dean Powers was Manager of football and Assistant Manager of basketball.

We were very sorry to lose one of our most active members, Anita Pingree, who moved to Texas.

We are grateful for the able guidance of our class advisor, Mr. Peter Stampon.

 L. Smith, S. Taylor, V. DeWitt, M. Linscott.
 Absent when picture was taken—E. Douglass, J. Morton, M. Robbins, M. Thompson.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

The sophomore class assembled for its first meeting on September 8, with fifty members under the supervision of Mrs. Priscilla Mains, faculty advisor. The following class officers were elected: David Leipold, President; Ruth Ann Harmon, Vice-President; Martha Thompson, Secretary; Bruce Murch, Treasurer; Robert Gyure and Joseph Pelletier, Student Council representatives.

Five of our class members did not return this year: Muriel Mowatt, Robert Sanborn, Phyllis Smith, Ronald Ward, and Martha Heino. In the fall Kay Smith moved to Oklahoma. We gained three new members: Evelyn Gordon, Marjorie Bubar, and George Cooper.

The class received class rings in December from the Balfour Company.

The members have added to the class treasury by sponsoring a "Vic" dance in September and a raffle in November. We had a very successful dance, the annual Sophomore Hop, which was held in the town hall on March 31.

We are proud of those in our class who have participated in athletics and also those who have taken part in the musical organizations.

Our sincere thanks go to Mrs. Mains who has attended all of our class meetings and has helped in making many plans.

 Absent when picture was taken—H. Hoyt, A. Lawrence, V. Smart.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

The Class of 1953 started its first year at B. H. S. with an enrollment of 49. At our first class meeting, which was held on September 8, we elected class officers as follows: President, Donald Wyman; Vice-President, William Roberts; Secretary, Murton Boutilier; Treasurer, Elwood Chapman. Our Student Council member is Duane Durgin. Later in the year our president left us, and Betty Dillingham was chosen to take his place.

We were entertained by the Student Council at Freshman Reception, September 16, 1949. We had a very enjoyable time, which further urged us to hold our own dance as soon as possible. We held our first dance on October 7, in the gym. Committees were chosen to perform the various duties at a class meeting. The dance was a success financially and we had a very good time.

A large number of our class are out for sports. We had several out for football and basketball from Naples and Harrison in spite of the fact that practices were after school and very often they had no way to ride home.

Several of our members are in the musical organizations, playing various instruments and taking part in special singing groups.

We held a social for our class Thursday afternoon, February 16, at the Legion Hall. We were entertained by Bill Roberts, who played his guitar and sang for us. We hope to have more socials and plan to invite other classes. We will be more active in sports, dancing, and other activities as time goes by, as we become more used to it.

We wish to thank our class advisor, Mr. Stoddard, for guidance throughout the year.

Betty Dillingham '53

ACTIVITIES

SENIOR ENGLISH CLASS

The seniors are studying the life and poetry of Robert Burns. During the year, the course includes a survey of English literature, with special units of study in Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and "Hamlet." Part of the course is also devoted to composition study, with a final review in grammar, spelling, and punctuation.

SENIOR CLASS NEWS

The Class of 1950, the first to graduate from the new Bridgton Memorial High School, elected at its first meeting, the following officers: President, Jerald Boutilier; Vice-President, Richard Gyure; Secretary, Beverly Parsons; Treasurer, Eileen Wiley. Those elected to Student Council are David Gray, Priscilla Palmer, Gerald Smith, Merton Warren, and Richard Gyure.

Among our projects for raising money during the year are food sales, Thanksgiving food basket raffle, refreshment booth at dances in town hall, and the Senior Play.

One sad event of our year was the loss of Harlan Pingree, who moved to Texas. We all wish he could graduate here with us. We also regret the loss of Eileen Wiley late in the spring.

The members of our class have been very active in sports and other activities throughout our school life.

We wish to express our appreciation to our class advisor, Mr. Tinkham, for his advice and guidance.

LIMERICK

Good things are wrapped up in small bundles, 'tis true
 Mrs. Mains, does this saying apply to you, too?
 Just a wee little mite,
 You're brim full of fight
 When the day's long assignment you give we don't do.

Standing—Mrs. Mains, J. Boutilier, P. Russell, P. Palmer, G. Smith, Mrs. Smith.
Seated—R. Gyure, M. Savage, C. Palmer, M. Johnson, D. Gray, B. Moynihan.
Absent when picture was taken—D. Walsh.

THE SENIOR PLAY

The class of '50 presented a most enjoyable Senior Play, Wednesday December 7, in the Mayfair Theatre under the direction of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Mains. The play "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works" was a very involving love affair. Aunt Susie (Carolyn Johnson) who was an heiress, was to marry Omar Graves (David Gray). Johnny Rogers (Jerald Boutilier) was impersonating Omar Graves, thus leading Aunt Susie to believe that he was her future husband. Slick Conway (Gerald Smith) arrived, stating that he was Aunt Susie's husband and later appeared to be one of the criminals. Madame Zola (Carlton Palmer) prophesied events of the future, and was a schemer in the plot to get Aunt Susie's property. Portia Lark (Priscilla Palmer) was the lawyer called in to settle the case. Joy Herbert (Betty Moynihan) was involved in the love problems of her fiancé, Johnny Rogers. Scarlet Deane (Marilyn Savage) Joy Herbert's maid, teamed up with LaSalle (Richard Gyure), colored servant to Omar, added humor to the play. Laura Dawson (Deborah Walsh) pretended to be a servant in order to gather information on the criminals. Mrs. Edward Dunning (Patricia Russell) was a friend of the deceased whose property Aunt Susie inherited, and who befriended Joy Herbert. Love lozenges, which were generously passed among the lovers, changed affairs for a time. Aunt Susie, with a new hair-do and Mrs. Dunning's low-necked evening gown, finally got Omar Graves for her husband.

SENIOR CHEMISTRY

This picture shows students in the laboratory in our new high school unit. They are making nitrous oxide (laughing gas).

SOPHOMORE HOME ROOM

The French class is being conducted in the front of the Sophomore room with study hall students in the back. At the rear of the room may be seen our library section, which affords a very neat and attractive arrangement of books.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

This class consists of several Junior and Senior boys and three Senior girls. The boys are working on several projects of their own choice. The girls are taking a special Household Mechanics Course with the permission of Mr. Alden Mitchell. Some projects that have been completed are plant holders, pad-holders, book ends, furniture refinishing. At present they are making braided rugs. Mr. Mitchell has given the girls many valuable pointers on small household repair jobs.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Le cercle francais has managed to keep comparatively active in spite of Senior Play rehearsals, athletics, etc.

The first meeting was held in the high school gymnasium on September 28, with 22 members present. Madame Churchill Smith opened the meeting by repeating, with all members, The Lord's Prayer in French. When she had finished, she said to an advanced student, "Et qu' avez vous appris pour votre premiere soiree au cercle francais?"

"Rien, Madame, il faut que j' y retourne la semaine prochaine."

The following officers were elected for the year: President, David Gray; Vice-President, Priscilla Palmer; Secretary, Ruth Ann Harmon; Treasurer, Harlan Pingree.

On Thursday evening, March 2, the club held its meeting with Mrs. Carroll Staley. There was more of The Lord's Prayer, the French National anthem, and hilarious spelling game in French. A new treasurer was elected to take Harlan's place, since he has moved to Texas.

Rather elaborate refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Staley, and Madame Smith.

 Middle row—Mrs. Irish, F. Gray, A. Fitton, J. DeWitt, G. Stuart, Z. Thompson, D. Cooper, M. Thompson.

BRIDGTON HIGH ORCHESTRA

This year our orchestra has been enlarged. The first part of our school year was spent practicing for our Fall Concert, which took place at the Town Hall in November, 1949. Other appearances made during the year include: senior play, spring concert, junior prize speaking, other school and community affairs, and graduation.

LES CHANSONETTES

Les Chansonettes, under the direction of Mona Irish, kept up their hard work this year. The members were changed, due to graduation and other unavoidable circumstances. Anita Pingree started with us as an alto this year, but after she moved to Texas, Gwendolyn Allen took her place.

This year's group sang at the concerts, prize speaking, churches, assemblies, Literary Club, dedication of our new high school, senior play, graduation activities, and at other community affairs.

We practiced Tuesday afternoons at 2:30.

GLEE CLUB

The B. H. S. Glee Club started this year with a record enrollment of ninety-eight. The Club is so large that the Juniors and Freshmen practice on Tuesdays, and the Seniors and Sophomores practice on Thursdays. The two groups get together for concert rehearsals. We took part in the two concerts during the year.

Standing—A. Fitton, J. March, C. Johnson, P. Palmer, F. Kilborn, F. Gray, Mrs. Irish.
Seated—S. Taylor, G. Allen, D. Proctor, L. Brooks, B. Moynihan, R. Harmon.

GLEE CLUB

Standing—B. Hilton, L. Brown, M. Day, J. DeWitt, B. Humphrey, A. Reynolds.
Seated—C. Johnson, N. Baker, Mrs. Irish, B. Libby, M. Littlehale, P. Holmes.

The Deberettes, a new group formed this year, under the direction of Mona Irish, are specializing in two-part music. Some of the girls will replace seniors for Chansonettes next year.

BAND

The band, under Mrs. Irish's direction, was reorganized this year with a group of fifteen members. Three Junior High pupils were added to the High School group.

Standing—N. Foster, Mrs. Irish, D. Davis, P. Palmer, C. Palmer, K. Farris, D. Proctor, S. Bump.
Seated—Z. Thompson, J. DeWitt, W. White, P. Bump, E. Varney, D. Cooper, M. Thompson.

CHEERLEADERS

During the football and basketball seasons the cheerleaders have been busy cheering at games both home and away. Some other girls have had experience with the varsity cheerleaders, so that they will be ready for the football season in the early fall.

BASEBALL

Coach Peter Stampon opened the 1949 baseball season with approximately enough boys for three full teams. The season started out with pitchers' practice late in March, and it got into full swing in April. With veterans like pitcher, Richard Small, and catcher, Milton McKeen, and a fairly experienced fielding team, the boys won six and lost six. The hopes of the team look pretty good for the 1950 season, although the squad will miss some of last year's regulars.

The letter men for the season were: Milton McKeen, Richard Small, Phillip Cockburn, Rodney Hill, Jerry Harmon, Robert Moynihan, Jerry Boutilier, David Gray, Carlton Palmer, David Leipold, Richard Gyure, and Dean Powers, manager.

FOOTBALL

Twenty-two boys showed up for football practice last fall. The season started out with a warm-up game with Kennett High School. The boys then went on to tackle a few regular season games. The team consisted of many freshmen who show good hopes to Coach Wesley Stoddard for the years to come. The season had to be cut short because of lack of boys and many injuries, resulting from inexperience. Good prospects shine through for next year, although the team loses experienced performers like Palmer, Delano, Smith, Boutilier, and Gray.

Special mention should be made of Coach Wesley Stoddard in his efforts to make a good team, and also to Manager Dean Powers for his excellent work.

The letter men of the season were: Carlton Palmer, Phillip Bauckman, Paul Martin, James Evans, Lewis Delano, Maurice Robbins, David Gray, Rex Martin, Gerald Smith, David Leipold, Jerry Boutilier, Rodney Hill, Frank Walker, Mervin Bressette, Gary Cockburn, Murton Boutilier, Richard Small, Stephen Palmer, and Gordon Stuart.

The schedule was as follows:

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Our girls had a very commendable basketball season under the direction of Mr. Tinkham. About twenty girls reported for practice the last of October. Priscilla Palmer was chosen Captain; Florence Gray, Manager; and Martha Day, Assistant Manager.

Excellent team-play of guards and forwards plus able shooting resulted in a record of 14 wins and 3 losses.

Priscilla Palmer was high scorer, tossing in 177 points, helped by Alice Delano and Louise Brooks with 138 and 122 points respectively.

Jeanette Paine led the guards' many interceptions and rebound recoveries, and with Carolyn Johnson and Dorothy Proctor, produced an excellent back-court combination.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Under Coach Peter Stampon, about twenty boys went out for basketball practice directly after football last November, to try a much stronger group of schools. The Mountain Conference proved to be a bit stronger for the "off season" team. Though the team gave each opponent a very rough time, our efforts were not rewarded with many wins.

Top scorers for the season were Rex Martin and Carlton Palmer, with closely following David Leipold and Richard Gyure.

Although we will lose some of our letter men this year, we hope with many experienced players left, to have a more successful season next winter. The letter men of the season were: Carlton Palmer, Jerry Boutilier, Richard Gyure, Rex Martin, David Leipold, Rodney Hill, Maurice Robbins, Paul Martin, David Gray, and Lewis Delano, (mgr.).

SOFTBALL

Nineteen Girls were out for softball last spring. Priscilla Palmer was chosen Captain; Fay Kilborn, Manager. The sport is relatively new at Bridgton High School and although we didn't have a very successful year as far as wins were concerned, the girls made a very good showing during the season. They fought hard every game never losing their courage. This experience should prove very helpful in the next season.

LITERARY SECTION

THE ASSIGNMENT

My story begins in the office of The Madison Journal's editor, J. C. Thomas. I, being the star reporter, had been called in to discuss the plans for the special "Half-Century Edition." This edition was to contain the stories of the ten most publicized people of 1900-1950.

J. C. cleared his throat and said, "My boy, did you ever hear of the Milton killing? No? Well, in 1916 this was the hottest story ever to hit the front page. It seems that Genevieve Milton shot her husband in a jealous fit. Her infant son was taken away and put under State care. Mrs. Milton served a brief sentence and was released in 1927. Since then she has been living in Tupperville. I want you to go up there and interview her."

As I turned to leave, J. C. added, "Oh yes, I've heard that she has been slightly crazy since then. She lives in an old shack and doesn't appear to be very sociable."

Twenty minutes later, I was packing in my room at Mrs. Albion's house. Ma Albion was the only mother I had ever known, and I loved her dearly. When I told her of my assignment, she tried to persuade me not to go. When I persisted on going, she told me something that made me sink into a chair. However, now, more than ever, I was determined to go to see Mrs. Milton.

At the station in Tupperville, I inquired about her. At first, the station attendant didn't know of whom I was speaking. Then he said, "You don't mean 'Mad Jenny,' do you?"

Further questioning proved that it was she for whom I was searching.

"But," he added, "I don't think she'd welcome you. You see, she don't take a likin' to strangers, or anyone else. If you still want to see her, she lives about a mile down the road. You'd better be careful, though. She's always takin' potshots at people who enter her property."

As I trudged down the road — there are no taxis in Tupperville — I turned the events of the day over in my mind. When I turned in at the gate of the worst-looking house I had ever seen, a tall, gaunt woman of about fifty appeared at the door. Behind her stiff, almost cruel face, I saw a taint of pity.

She fingered her rifle and, without words, motioned me off the property. I remained where I was. She slowly raised her rifle and said, "Go on, get out of here, or I'll shoot you."

Not retreating an inch, I said slowly, "Madam, you killed your husband. Would you deal the same fate to your son?"

FATAL ENDING

Oh! What was that! Do I dare turn around? Can't see anything. I guess it was just my imagination. Well — I guess I'll get back to join Caesar and — whoops — there one goes again! Came a little closer that time. Will the next one hit? I won't let it worry me. Now where did I leave Caesar? Here he is, going to the statehouse with the conspirators. Watch it Caesar, it's going to be a trick! He's going to stab you! Yeow! Am I going to be stabbed too? That one really found its mark! What a spit ball!!

THE PERFECT MURDER

The perfect murder! No witnesses, no clues and yet it will be murder! Oh! I've waited for this, longed for it, and tonight it is to happen. I'll make him suffer for all those years of torture, of being made a fool of.

It all started many years ago when we were both in love with the same girl, and, yet, I think he was interested only because I was. Yes, he married her, and me, well, I'm still a bachelor.

Even in business he got ahead while I — I was only a glorified office boy. Something to abuse and kick at. Well, that's all over now. I'll have my revenge tonight!

The moon is hidden behind a cloud and the wind is enough to rattle every bone in your body.

He lives in the best part of town and look what I live in, one room. After tonight that will be all over.

I can see him outlined on the shade. There goes the light, now it's only a matter of waiting, and haven't I been doing that for ten years?

Now is the time! Up the trellis, quiet now, onto the roof, raise the window, over the sill and into the room. I slowly advance toward the bed, and there, sleeping like a baby is the man I'm going to murder. Press the chloroform over his nose, and put the pillow over his head and hold it. At last it's done, just a simple case of suffocation. No one will suspect me. Yes, I'm still free, free to roam the streets, and who knows, that was so easy, I might try it again. And it might be you!

I WISH I HAD STAYED IN BED

I shiver, I shake, my face grows red
Oh, how I wish I had stayed in bed;
Today is the day we have to recite.

I like to read, I like to write
But never, never do I like to recite.
I wish I had stayed in bed.

I know that sober I should be,
But how can I, when all I see
Are faces grinning and laughing at me;
I wish I had stayed in bed.

I hear them laughing when I forget
What I'm supposed to say.
I shiver, I shake, my face grows red
Oh, how I wish I had stayed in bed.

WHAT NOW?

Whenever I think of high school students, I think of March and the sentence that goes along with it, "It comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb."

Yes, I remember watching them come in the first day. Some were tall, some were short; some, fat; some, skinny; all kinds of shapes and sizes. They had just terminated their reign as kings and queens of the grammar school. They walked with gangling legs and talked with cracking voices, just changing from high "C" to bass. The boys wore pants that bagged at the knees; the girls, bagging skirts and "sloppy Joe" sweaters. Then came Freshmen reception. The boys, not knowing how to adjust themselves to this new phase of social life, and the girls trying to teach them.

The next year I watched them come in again. This time they were a little more dignified, and were laughing at the new crop of freshmen. The sophomore year was not so happy for some. They were not old enough to be friends with the upper classmen, and felt too old to be seen with lowly freshmen. As the year went by, a few gained courage as they won recognition in sports and other extra curricular activities.

Then came the junior year. This was thought to be the most esteemed position in high school life — at least by the juniors. Most of them had forgotten their last year's whims and were ready to embark in new fields of adventure, both scholastic and social.

Now I come to the last year. It is an extreme that comes once in a life time. This is where the lion stops dead in his tracks, while the lamb takes over. This is the year I have been waiting for, working for, and yet I start wishing that I could start all over again as a freshman. Graduation, and almost all activities seem very unimportant. I'm not thinking of the dance Friday night; I am thinking of what I may be able to do when I get out of this building that has been my home for four years.

Yes, some of us know. Jane is going to get married; Tom is going to college; and Frank is going to work in his father's store. But I, as well as most of my friends, am thinking of just two words — WHAT NOW?

KINDNESS

Don't be selfish with your kindness
To those who come your way.
Someday you may need a kindness
More than you do today.
So don't be selfish with your kindness —
Greet with a kindness while you may;
A smile, a laugh, and a cheery word
May brighten up the day.

SUNLIGHT

As the sun begins to glow,
Waking all with flashing light,
O'er all the land the bright rays flow,
Making all seem new and bright.
The cold and darkness seem to die,
As light and warmth begin to come.
And golden sunlight fills the sky,
Only to meet day's endless hum.

THE CAT

He'd done it! He'd just completed the perfect bank robbery. They'd never find him. He was too smart for them. They said that this bank was impregnable, but he'd shown them! He'd robbed it and not left a single clue.

But wait! The cat! The one that had leaped at him from the alley and followed him into the bank! It was still in there! He had to get it out before it set off an alarm, and someone discovered the robbery. He'd planned his getaway to the minute, and now this! But if they found the cat, they might discover how he'd gotten inside. Discovery now would upset all his plans. He had to get that cat out! He'd leave the money here in the alley and go back for the cat.

But wait, what was that! It sounded like — yes, it was. The police siren! They'd found out! Blast that cat! Where would he go? There was no place to hide here. He'd have to run for it. There's a good place to hide over there, nice and dark with a lot of boxes to hide behind. No, too near the bank, better try to cross the street where it's darker. Those sirens — getting closer — must be looking for me, but I've fooled them, I'll get away — too smart for them — never find me.

Good, no one coming! I'll dash across into that other alley there. That shadow! a cop! They'd found him!

All right I did it. I robbed the bank. What! you didn't know! But the sirens — just a kid lost — taking him home.

It couldn't be — the chance of a lifetime — the perfect robbery. He'd failed, failed because that cat made him jumpy. Now look! he'd been caught — probably get life, and all because of that cat. Cats! He hated cats!

HORSE OPERAS

On Saturday night in the theater
A cowboy comes to wail.
And he squeaks the tales of many a year
As he rides his nag up the trail.

Hark unto shots in the distance!
A stage coach in distress!
He rides to the scene with all possible speed
And rounds up the crooks with zest.

Now who is the leader of the outlaw band!
The posse has searched high and low.
And who should the culprit turn out to be?
The sheriff! As if we all didn't know.

They offer the hero the sheriff's job
For his deed they wish to repay.
But to the regret of the belle of the burg
He must be on his way.

He rides up the trail with a tooth-paste smile
To the tune of a western ditty.
He turns and waves a cheery good-bye
He's gone! Oh, what a pity.

JUSTICE OVER SYMPATHY

As I sit here waiting, I realize how wrong I was. At the time I thought I was justified in my actions, but the judge and jury didn't see it my way. Let me tell you my story, and maybe you can see why I did that terrible deed.

Five years ago I entered the employ of a trucking company. If it hadn't been for the shortage of experienced drivers, I never would have been able to get the job. You see, I am only five feet tall, and I weigh one hundred and seven pounds. I could drive a truck, though, and I knew about all there was to know concerning trucks!

"Bull" Ryan, so called because of his tremendous size and strength, was the best driver in the group and took an immediate fancy to picking on me. Every time I came in from a long haul, "Bull" was there to meet me with some comment, usually centered on my size. Then he would laugh his loud, menacing laugh. At first, this didn't bother me too much, but he continued and added insults and nasty remarks to his teasing. For four years I listened to "Bull" while the other drivers would gather and think it a great joke to see and hear "Bull" taunt me. Then I knew something would have to be done, for I was rapidly losing my mind. I finally decided on what I would do. Oh, it would be wonderful not to hear "Bull's" voice. My plans gradually took shape in my mind.

On the night "Bull" went to his "accident," he was exceptionally jolly. As soon as he arrived at the terminal, he started in on my size, but for the first time it didn't bother me at all. I guess I was too busy congratulating myself on my ingenious plan. The next morning, the newspapers carried the story of the terrible accident at the foot of "Dead Man's Hill." As everybody knew, there was a sharp curve that skirted a ravine. "Bull's" truck plunged to the bottom of the ravine and swiftly became a tangled mass of wreckage. Inside the cab was the mangled body of "Bull" Ryan. There was no chance of his getting out of the truck once it left the road. What no one knew was that I, yes, I had cut the brake cable on his truck. He would have to use his brakes on the hill.

That day, the police came to the trucking company to make inquiries on the accident. Drat the police. If it hadn't been for them, everything would have been all right.

You know the rest of the story, Reverend Smith. Thank you for hearing my side of the case. Hear those footsteps? That must be the warden coming to lead me to the gas chamber. Will you answer my last question, Reverend? If you had been me, what would you have done?
